

2. Assessment and diagnosis

autism matters

What we said we would do

We said we would provide diagnosis services and review the way people are able to use them, to make sure they are meeting people's needs. We wanted people to have a chance to share their experiences and for support to be available after diagnosis.

What we did

- Commissioned a local diagnostic service for adults
- Continued to deliver local diagnostic services for children and young people.

What we still need to do

- Work with the Clinical Commissioning Groups to develop a sustainable service model for diagnostic services in North Yorkshire.
- Review the information which is available to people both pre and post-diagnosis
