

7. Working Together

autism matters

What we said we would do

We said we would involve people with autism and their families when planning our work and keep them updated. We said we would work together better with all organisations who are supporting people with autism to improve services.

What we did

- Developed a governance structure for implementing the strategy with a range of partners and stakeholders
- Worked with parents to develop parent support in Craven district

What we still need to do

- Develop a range of ways for people on the spectrum, their families, friends and carers to find out about opportunities to help develop services and get involved
- Ensure that we are including voluntary and community sector organisations in developing services
